

Wilder Study

In 2012 the Minnesota Chippewa Tribe (MCT) contracted with Wilder Research to conduct a study and produce population projections for the MCT bands. In 2014 the study was updated. Key findings in these reports include:

- * The overall population of the MCT is declining under the 1/4 blood quantum requirement, which has been in effect since 1961.
- * The population decline is accompanied by a substantial aging of the population.
- * See different scenarios and what impact that could have on White Earth's population, including lineal descent.
